

Coming soon - Lucid's new remote "nuke" service

Remote nuke? Sounds like you're going to remotely detonate my computer like something out of Spooks.

Well, Gavin the owner of Lucid is a Spooks fan and he's looking forward to the new series but fear not, we're not planning to destroy your computer!

Although modern lightweight laptops have revolutionised mobile working there is an inherent risk that your laptop could get stolen or lost along with commercially sensitive data.

This new service from Lucid will enable us to do any of the following:

- Recover: If your protected computer is stolen, we can use our technology to track it to help get it back in your hands.
- Lock: We can block your computer remotely. You can also choose to display a customized lock-out message on screen. You could, for instance, display contact information which would help a good Samaritan return your computer to you.
- Delete: We can remotely and selectively erase sensitive files.
- Locate: Maybe your laptop hasn't been stolen. You might have simply left it behind somewhere safe but aren't sure where. We can map and display your laptop's current and past whereabouts to help you locate it.

We're introducing this new service very soon. We'll keep you posted.
